At Livermore Falls, the other dry, a woman living in the village was taken ill, and one of the physicians received a call for some medicine for her relief. Among other things, he sent her a generous dose of mustard, to be applied in the form of a poultice on the back of the neck. Instead she mixed the engine quantity of mustard with a glass of water, and drank it. It threw her into a violent fit of vomiting, and she suffered in tense pain. She is doing well now, and bids fair to recover, but won't drink mother mustard poultice.

A special town meeting was held at Dearing, Saturday, lat four o'clock in the afternoon. The object of the meeting, as stated in a cail signed by Mr. L. B. Dennett and several others, was to secure an additional appropriation of $1,600 to complete the new school house at Woodfords. The original appropriation, $3,730, has been expended save a little over $100, and the extra money was asked for to put in the heating apparatus and finish the building. A good attendance of the voters was present, and the petitioners for another appropriation were outvoted about two to one.

I'wo Democrace got a black and par-tially drunk and endeavored to make him vote the Democratic ticket. When the black man went to the polls, however he voted for the Republican candidates. This angered the Lemourats and they assaulted him. Then a Republican named. White, relative of the ex-Congressman of that name, defended the negro and was shot A free shooting fight followed, in which two Democrats were killed and two whites were wounded. The negro was caught by the Democrats and cruelly murdered."

It is interesting to notice that the negro could not be made to vote the Democratic ticket, even after he had been made drunk, and that he was killed for his obstinacy It is safe to say the murderer will never receive his just publishment, as it is impossible to convict a man of murder before a Bourbon court when the victim is a negro. In Edgefield, South Carolina, the other day there were two murder trials — One of the men arraigned was a pegro and he was promptly found guilty. The other, a white man, who killed a negro without the slightest provocation, was acquitted This is the justice accorded the colored people in the Bourbon courts of the South to-day.

One of the industries of Bangor, which commenced in a small way and has grown to dimensions that will be a surprise to many, if not most, of our readers, is the manufacture of the neat, convenient and servicable article known as wigwam slippers. The origin of this class of goods was, if we are correctly informed, in the inventive brain of our enterprising fellow feets yesterday morning, in the seventieth citizen, Mr. E. A. Buck, whose manufacture of moccasins, or "pacs' has been carried on on a large scale for many years and have found a market, together with Foxcroft, Mc., where he attended school those of other Bangor manufacturers, all at the Foxcroft Academy at the same time over the United States, particularly the with Hon. Lewis Barker. He read law northerly, or lumber producing States. Since the first wigwam slippers were made phis, where he practiced for a while and great improvements have been made in afterwards had an office in this city for their manufacture and others have en- some time. He was a genial, pleasant gaged in the work of making them, giving gentleman, of fine literary taste, and deemployment to hundreds of our citizens in the various process of manufacture and in favorite authors. For the past sixteen making boxes for their shipment. Those years he has made his home in Eddington. now engaged in the industry are, we be- His funeral will take place from the resilieve, E. A. Buck & Co., J. O'B. Darling dence of Mr. A. F. Merrill to-day, at 12.30 & Co., Dudley & Shaw, J. S. Ricker and J. E. Booth. Yesterday a representative Mount Hope, where a short burial service of the WHIG, in his strolls about the city, will be had at 4.30 o cleck. found himself in the vicinity of the factory of the last named gentleman, and being struck with the fine appearance of the building was tempted to step inside where, under the kind attentions of Mr. Booth he passed a pleasant hour in watching the work from its beginning till the goods were packed in boxes ready for shipment. J. E. BOOTH'S FINE FACTORY.

Mr. Booth's factory is a handsome three storied structure, with attic and basement, situated to the east of his residence on French street and fronting on Broadway. Outside of the building is the elevator which conveys the stock and manufactured goods to and from the various work and store rooms, and is surmounted by an observatory from which a magnificent view of the city and surrounding country is obtained.

Entering the factory we were met by the genial proprietor, Mr. John E. Booth, who invited us into the office, which is situated directly opposite the entrance. After a p leasant talk with Mr. Booth, interspersed with the music of two sweet voiced canaries, we made a tour of the factory, which has recently been improved, enlarged and basement added. On the right, as we enter, are the cutters, who cut out the bottoms, the stock fitter, who cuts out the soles, and the tip fitter, who cuts out the ON THIS FLOOR the bottoms and soles are also marked, the Mary Morgan. tips punched and eyeleted, and the slippers riveted. Passing up to the second floor we found several girls and women employed in lacing and varnishing the slippers preparatory to shipping. We also saw two machines on this floor which are used for sewing up the heels and sewing on the stays. This is anjinvention of Mr. Booth's, a piece of leather running up the fast taking. Going down into the busement we found currier and his assistant, who finish

Mr. Booth's factory is a model in its way and one of the finest in New England. He is now putting out from eighty to one hundred cases a day, and intends to raise his output to fully the latter amount, and he is continually behind his orders. Inside and outside his factory he gives employment at the present time to two hundred and twelve hands, and his pay roll is from $1,500 to $1,900 a week for labor. Mr. Booth commenced the manufacture of these allopers in a small way only fifteen months ago, and we are glad to note the success which has attended his enterprise

[Correspondence of the Whig and Courter.] State Steamboat Inspector Flowers on Monday visited Foxcroft and was taken four miles to Sebec Lake over a pleasan road to the settlement and steam mill of David Greeley, Esc., who has a nice farm and gave us a nice dinner. There we found the new steamer Marion, built by H. J. Leach, of Brewer, and boiler by the Penobscot River Boiler Works, and gine at Foxoroft. She is a fine specimen of workmanship, capable of carrying forgine at Foxoroft. She is a fine specimen of workmanship, ctable of carrying forty-five or fifty passengers. She is to take the place of the ancient steamer Greenwood, which has honorably retired from the lake to give place to modern improvement in lake steamers, This lake is about twelve miles long, with the little manufacturing town of sheec at the foot of it and the Willimantic Spool Company's Works at the head. One of the pretitest spots in the State is Mr. Greeley's mills, the headquarters of the Marion, at the center of the lake. After the steamer was inspected we took a trip to Willimantic, to test her machinery and found it in perfect order. On our return home we picked up a party of fishermen who spent the morning on the lake. One gentleman with his son, ten years old, showed me four splendid kand-locked saludon ranging from one to two and a half pounds. He said the boy book three of them.
